

The Commons Seminar

Robert Nichols

November 3

1:10 – 4:10 PM

Participants

A discussion with Robert Nichols about the commons, property, and theft, based on his recent book Theft is Property! (Duke, 2020).

Robert Nichols is Associate Professor of Political Theory at the University of Minnesota. He works in the areas of Critical Theory, the history of political thought, and the contemporary politics of settler colonialism and indigeneity in the Anglo-American world.

Information

For Zoom registration and pre-circulated readings, please click here.

After registering, you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the meeting.