

Center for Cultural Analysis Awards

A Call for Applications

The Center for Cultural Analysis is pleased to announce two new prizes. All untenured faculty from Rutgers-NB are eligible to apply. The deadline for both prizes is Monday, February 3, 2020.

CCA Early Career Book Prize

The Rutgers Center for Cultural Analysis (CCA) invites applications for an Early Career Book Prize, intended to aid junior faculty in the humanities, social sciences, and fine arts. The prize will pay up to $5,000 to host a “book forum” at the CCA (CCA will provide administrative support) which will bring scholars in appropriate fields to Rutgers for a colloquium on work in progress—ideally a book manuscript that is in the final stages of revision. Those wishing to apply should submit a cover letter, a two-page description of the project, cv, and sample chapter. They should also arrange for a letter of support from their department chairperson to be emailed to the CCA.

CCA Early Career Research Prize

The Rutgers Center for Cultural Analysis (CCA) invites applications for an Early Career Research Prize, intended to aid junior faculty in the humanities, social science, and fine arts. The prize will pay up to $5,000 in support of the publication of a first book by a Rutgers faculty member. The prize may be used toward subvention, permissions, or to aid in the cost of publishing a book (eg., a book with a large number of images). Those wishing to apply should submit a cover letter, a two-page description of the project, cv, a sample chapter, and any correspondence with the publisher, up to and including a signed contract.

**Please assemble all materials in a single pdf document, and email it by the February 3, 2020 deadline to: admin@cca.rutgers.edu.
